Girls Who Choose God: Stories Of Courageous Women From The Bible

Synopsis

From Eve to Esther, from the Samaritan woman at the well to the widow with her two mites, many women in the Bible have made courageous choices. All through the ages, women have chosen to help, to solve problems, to stand up for others, to strengthen families, and to follow God no matter what. Girls Who Choose God invites young readers (and those who love them) to make important choices of their own, following the examples of great women in the scriptures. With breathtaking illustrations, beautifully told stories, and insightful discussion questions, this delightful book is perfect for sharing, reading aloud, and drawing children into the scriptures.

Customer Reviews

Hooray! Thank you to Deseret Book and the creators of Girls Who Choose God, for making a book for our children that supports church doctrine about God's love for and interaction with His daughters, and their examples of how to make courageous, strong choices that bring themselves and others closer to God. My children, boys and girl, are all younger than the recommended age, and all love looking at and reading this book, alone and together. The illustrations are warm and thoughtful. You might consider getting a copy of the book just to cut up so you can hang some of the pictures. This gorgeous picture book is simple enough for young kids (my five year old son was attentive and thoughtful all the way through, then used it to help with a Primary talk), but profound and beautiful enough for any age (my 8-y-o daughter loves to read it too, and spoke about it when asked for her baptism program who her favourite scripture hero is). In short narrations it portrays the rich heritage of scripture heroes we have in the bible that we don't think of when we hear those words, then provides a question to help you â œ likenâ • them to yourself. The women the book profiles are not just who youâ™d expect (ever heard of Mahlah and her sisters? or Deborah, the judge?), but even the most familiar characters (Esther, Mary and Martha) are shown to be agents of choice in a new way. I especially like the way the questions at the end of each profile/story double as both prompts for thoughtful discussion, and as insights into the characters being profiled. This would be a great gift to give at baptism or at the completion of the Faith in God award in Primary, as a way to honor a young woman entering or moving up in the Young Womenâ™s program, or a missionary getting their mission call.
