Customer Reviews

My son was just recently diagnosed with a learning disability along with a mental health disorder. So, he started to see a therapist. This book allows the therapist and he to "break the ice" at the beginning of each session. They read it together and from that stems a conversation and incredibly helps the therapeutic process.

This is my first review because I'm so disappointed. First this "book" is very short and is made flimsy. It looks like something you would get for free with another purchase and I did not expect this for something put out by Time. It's made like any special anniversary magazine, slightly thicker paper than a typical magazine. My other main problem is it's titled All About Animals, but the second HALF of the book isn't about animals! How do roller coasters go up and down? How do optical illusions trick our eye? How is a fireworks display staged? How to grow crystals? If this was just some random cheap book my kid asked for it wouldn't have me so disappointed, but my 9 year old son specifically asked for "a non-fiction book about animal facts" for his birthday so I ordered this and don't have time to fix it and feel awful.

It contains too much information and writing. May be suitable for a bit grown up boys and girls but definitely not for the "kids."

My nephew loves it

the kids love it
